

Simplifying Corporate Tax Benefits Claims

Keeping businesses afloat and safeguarding jobs with Full-Cycle Automation

Coronavirus
Use Case

01 Challenges

A large enterprise wants to radically simplify the often complex and frequently time-consuming process of claiming corporate tax benefits made available by the central government's tax authorities to certain industries under highly specific circumstances.

02 COVID-19 Urgency!

The global spread of COVID-19 has caused unprecedented economic disruption that shows no sign of abating in the foreseeable future. Many central governments have therefore initiated a raft of emergency measures, including special corporate tax benefits, aimed at helping businesses remain viable and to try to prevent the wholesale shedding of jobs.

03 Solution

Kryon's Full-Cycle Automation Suite effortlessly gathers the legally mandated information – from multiple sources in different locations and stored in a variety of systems – to apply for and receive corporate tax benefits quickly and easily. In addition, the robots can keep up with fast-changing regulations published online and elsewhere to ensure compliancy. In this way, enterprises can ensure that they receive all the help available to continue operating during challenging times.

04 Expected Results

- Up to 70% reduction in the time taken to claim corporate tax benefits
- Keeps businesses in the black and employees on the payroll
- Eliminates expensive mistakes for exceptional accuracy
- Frees up back office teams to focus on more revenue-generating activities

